officers were held as prisoners by the National Guards for some hours. Arago and Ferry were first released, and soon atterterwards Jules. Favre and Garnier's pages, when order was restored. It was found that the adversaries of the armistice was the authors of the troubles.
Trochu in the evening issued a proclamation slowing the advantage of an armistion showing the advantage of an armis-tice to the French, and that Paris was entirely quiet. The result of the vote as to whether Paris will accept a Provisional Government is unknown. The National Guards are forbidden to appear in the streets in armed groups. Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says:
I take pleasure in recommending your Rosaballs as a very poworful alterative.
I have seen it need in two cases with hapby results—one in a case of secondary sphills, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five botties of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is applely improving under its use, and the inclusions are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rossadis is made, and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingredients.

THE FRENCH ARMY. The Incapacity of their Generals. Inferior Equipments of the Troops

NEW YORK, November 3. The Times of to-morrow will contain the report of an interview with Dr. Sims, late surgeon in-chief of the Anglo-American ambulance corps, which has done such good service in France. Dr. Sims witnessed the burning of Bazeilles, the battle of Sedan and surrender of the Em battle of Sedan and surrender of the Emperor, and also accompanied McMahon after the latter was wounded He describes the equipment of the French troops as wretched. He saw whole parks of artillery brought from the field of Sedan while the battle was raging, because there was no ammunition. The conduct of the French army in all the earlier battles he describes as heroic, but states that they soon because these all confidence in their Genbegan to lose all confidence in their Genbegan to lose an connected a their den-erals, and that this, combined with the want of food, spread demoralization among them. France, he considers, has no Generals capable of commanding over 20,000 men. He states that from over 20,000 men. He states that from the very outset the commissariat was miserably inadequate. At Sedan he saw the French troops skiming horses and cating the raw flesh. The equipment of the Prussian army and all its appurtonances, he describes as perfect, and speaks in high terms of the ability of the Prussian officers. He says the French loss in killed and wounded at Sedan was 15,000. In the bette the Bayasian contingent alone. that battle the Bavarian contingent alone, which went into the battle with 60,000 men, loss one-lourth in killed and wounded. He is convinced that Prussian accounts conceal the actual loss of the Gernans. Dr. Sims confirms the horrible mans. Dr. Sims confirms the horrible cruelties of the Bavarians in burning Bazeilles to the ground, destroying men, women and children, and shooting those who attempted to escape. He also states that the rumors, both tor a year before, during and since the war, about the ill-health of the Emperor and the slekly nature of the Prince Imperal are attacht tales.
